

Complaint Handling Policy and Procedure Dominion Markets Ltd

1. Purpose

Dominion Markets Ltd is committed to handling client complaints in a fair, transparent, objective, consistent, and timely manner.

This Complaint Handling Policy and Procedure sets out the process for receiving, acknowledging, investigating, escalating, resolving, recording, and reviewing complaints relating to the Company's products and services.

2. Scope

This Policy applies to clients of Dominion Markets Ltd who wish to lodge a complaint regarding any aspect of the Company's Forex and CFD trading services, including trading platforms, account administration, deposits, withdrawals, fees, execution, customer service, payment processing, account closure, or any other service-related matter.

This Policy applies to complaints submitted by clients directly or through an authorised representative, provided that appropriate authority or supporting documentation is provided where required.

3. Definition of a Complaint

A complaint is any written expression of dissatisfaction made by a client regarding the services provided by Dominion Markets Ltd, where a response or resolution is explicitly or implicitly expected.

A complaint may relate to, among other matters, the Company's services, trading platform, execution, deposits, withdrawals, fees, account administration, communication, customer support, or the conduct of the Company's employees, agents, affiliates, or service providers.

General enquiries, requests for information, technical support requests, or routine service requests will not normally be treated as complaints unless the communication clearly expresses dissatisfaction and seeks a response or remedy.

4. Lodging a Complaint

Clients may submit complaints by email to complaints@dominionmarkets.com or by contacting the Company through its official support channels.

To assist the Company in reviewing the complaint efficiently, the client should provide the following information:

full name;
account number, where applicable;

registered email address;
contact details;
clear description of the issue;
relevant dates, times, transactions, order numbers, payment references, or communication records;
copies of any supporting documents or evidence; and the outcome or remedy sought by the client.

Where a complaint is submitted by a representative on behalf of a client, the Company may request written authorisation, proof of identity, or any other document required to verify the representative's authority.

5. Acknowledgement of Complaint

Upon receiving a complaint, the Company will acknowledge receipt within two (2) business days.

The acknowledgement may include confirmation that the complaint has been received, a brief summary of the complaint, the complaint reference number where applicable, the expected timeframe for review, and any request for further information or supporting documentation required to assess the matter.

Where the communication does not contain sufficient information to identify the client, understand the issue, or commence a proper review, the Company may request additional information before treating the matter as a formal complaint.

6. Investigation and Resolution Process

The Company will investigate complaints fairly, objectively, and in good faith.

The investigation may include reviewing account records, trade logs, order history, transaction history, deposit and withdrawal records, payment records, platform records, communication records, system logs, internal notes, compliance records, and any supporting documents provided by the client.

The complaint may be reviewed by the relevant department, Compliance function, Risk function, Operations team, Senior Management, or any other appropriate person within the Company, depending on the nature and seriousness of the matter.

The Company aims to resolve complaints as quickly as possible and, where practicable, within fourteen (14) business days.

In any event, the Company will endeavour to provide a final written response within thirty (30) days from the date of receipt of the complaint. Where additional time is required due to the nature, complexity, technical requirements, payment provider involvement, liquidity provider review, or regulatory/compliance sensitivity of the complaint, the Company will inform the client of the reasons for the delay and provide updates on the progress of the review.

Once the investigation is complete, the Company will provide a written response setting out its findings, the outcome of the complaint, and any corrective action or remedy where applicable.

7. Escalation Process

If a client is not satisfied with the response provided, the client may request that the complaint be escalated to Senior Management or another appropriate senior person within the Company for further review.

The escalation request should be submitted in writing and should explain why the client disagrees with the response or why the client considers that the complaint has not been properly resolved.

The Company will review the escalated complaint fairly and objectively and will communicate its final position to the client within a reasonable timeframe.

8. External Complaint Submission

Where a complaint cannot be resolved through the Company's internal complaint handling process, or where the client remains dissatisfied with the Company's final response, the client may refer the matter to the relevant external authority or dispute resolution body in Mauritius, where applicable.

For complaints relating to a regulated entity holding a Global Business Licence from the Financial Services Commission, Mauritius, clients may submit the complaint through the FSC Mauritius Online Complaints Portal, subject to the applicable complaint submission requirements and procedures published by the FSC from time to time.

Where the complaint falls within the jurisdiction of the Office of Ombudsperson for Financial Services, the client may refer the matter to that Office in accordance with its applicable complaint handling process.

Clients are encouraged to refer to the official websites of the relevant authority for the applicable complaint submission process, eligibility requirements, supporting documents, forms, timelines, and contact details.

9. Record Keeping

The Company will maintain records of complaints received, including the nature of the complaint, date of receipt, client details, supporting documents, internal review notes, actions taken, investigation findings, outcome, communications with the client, escalation records, and any follow-up actions.

Complaint records and supporting documents will be retained for at least ten (10) years, or for such longer period as may be required under applicable laws, regulations, regulatory instructions, legal proceedings, or internal policies.

The Company may maintain a complaints register for internal monitoring, management reporting, compliance review, root cause analysis, and regulatory purposes.

10. Confidentiality and Data Protection

All complaints and related information will be handled confidentially and in accordance with applicable data protection requirements and the Company's Privacy Policy.

Information relating to a complaint may be shared with employees, officers, directors, affiliates, service providers, payment providers, liquidity providers, legal advisers, auditors, regulators, authorities, law enforcement agencies, courts, external dispute resolution bodies, or other relevant parties where necessary for complaint handling, investigation, legal, regulatory, compliance, operational, or risk management purposes.

The Company will only disclose complaint-related information where it considers such disclosure necessary, lawful, or appropriate in connection with the complaint or its legal and regulatory obligations.

11. Fair Treatment and Non-Retaliation

The Company will handle complaints fairly and will not treat a client adversely merely because the client has submitted a complaint.

The filing of a complaint does not remove the client's obligation to comply with the Client Agreement, trading conditions, margin requirements, payment obligations, account security requirements, or any other applicable terms and conditions.

12. Continuous Improvement

The Company may review complaints periodically to identify recurring issues, service deficiencies, operational weaknesses, training needs, system issues, policy gaps, or control improvements.

Where appropriate, the Company may take corrective or preventive action to improve internal processes, enhance service standards, reduce recurring complaints, and support ongoing compliance with applicable legal and regulatory obligations.
