

Client Agreement / Terms and Conditions

Dominion Markets Ltd.

These Terms and Conditions (“Agreement”) govern access to and use of the website www.dominionmarkets.com (the “Website”) and the trading services provided by Dominion Markets Ltd. (“Dominion Markets”, “Company”, “we”, “us”, or “our”).

Dominion Markets Ltd. is incorporated and regulated by the Financial Services Commission of the Republic of Mauritius and holds an Investment Dealer License under license number GB24203525.

By accessing the Website, opening an Account, or using any services provided by Dominion Markets, you (“Client”, “you”, or “your”) agree to be bound by this Agreement, together with any policies, disclosures, risk warnings, and documents incorporated by reference.

If you do not agree with any provision of this Agreement, you must not access or use the Website or services provided by Dominion Markets.

Please read these Terms and Conditions carefully before using or obtaining any information or services from Dominion Markets.

1. DEFINITIONS

1.1. For the purposes of this Agreement, the following terms shall have the meanings set forth below:

Dominion Markets or Dominion Markets Ltd: The legal entity operating the trading platform and providing the financial services described under this Agreement, acting as principal counterparty to the Client’s transactions.

Account: The trading account opened and maintained by the Client with Dominion Markets for the purpose of trading Financial Instruments and holding funds related to trading activities.

Sub-Account: Any additional operational account linked to a main Account, which may be used for different account types, trading strategies, or product segmentation purposes under the same contractual relationship.

Access Data: The username, password, authentication credentials, security codes, and any other identification information required for accessing the Client Portal, Online Trading System, or Mobile Trading Service.

Agreement: The present Client Agreement, together with all policies, disclosures, risk warnings, schedules, appendices, and any documents incorporated by reference, as amended from time to time.

Assets or Underlying Assets: Any financial instrument, currency, commodity, index, share, cryptocurrency, metal, energy product, future contract, option, or other asset underlying a CFD or trading instrument offered by Dominion Markets.

Client: Any natural person or legal entity that has successfully opened an Account with Dominion Markets and is authorized to use the Company’s services under this Agreement.

Client Account: Any account opened in the name of the Client for executing Transactions, holding margin, deposits, profits, losses, and related balances.

Client Portal: The secure online environment provided by the Company through which the Client may manage account information, deposits, withdrawals, documents, confirmations, and trading activity.

Company: Dominion Markets Ltd., including its affiliates, partners, service providers, and authorized representatives providing services under this Agreement.

Contract for Difference (CFD): A financial derivative instrument allowing the Client to speculate on price movements of an Underlying Asset without acquiring ownership of such asset.

Copy Trading: A trading functionality that allows the Client to automatically replicate or follow trading strategies, positions, or transactions executed by another trader or strategy provider through the Company's systems.

Electronic Systems: All software, hardware, platforms, communication networks, trading terminals, mobile applications, servers, or technological infrastructure used by the Company to provide trading services.

Financial Instruments: CFDs, spot instruments, futures, foreign exchange products, commodities, indices, shares, metals, energies, options, or any other instruments made available by the Company for trading.

Force Majeure Event: Any event beyond the reasonable control of the Company including, but not limited to, market disruptions, technical failures, acts of government, regulatory actions, war, terrorism, natural disasters, communication failures, cyber incidents, liquidity shortages, or extraordinary market volatility.

Free Margin: The funds available in the Client Account for opening new positions or maintaining existing positions after margin requirements have been met.

Leverage: The ratio determining the level of exposure obtained through trading relative to the margin deposited by the Client.

Margin: The funds required to open and maintain trading positions as determined by the Company.

Market Information: Any research, analysis, educational materials, market commentary, trading ideas, news, signals, or informational content provided by the Company that does not constitute investment advice.

Mobile Trading Service: Any trading functionality accessed through mobile devices using software or applications provided or approved by the Company.

Online Trading System: The electronic trading platform(s), including MT5, cTrader, web platforms, or any successor systems, through which the Client submits Orders and monitors trading activity.

Order: Any instruction given by the Client to open, close, modify, or cancel a Transaction through the Company's trading systems.

Position: An open Transaction in a Financial Instrument resulting from the execution of an Order.

Professional Client: A Client categorized by the Company, subject to applicable regulation, as possessing sufficient experience, knowledge, and expertise to make independent investment decisions and properly assess associated risks.

Retail Client: A Client receiving the highest level of regulatory protection under applicable laws due to presumed lower trading experience or expertise.

Eligible Counterparty: A Client classified as a sophisticated market participant receiving reduced regulatory protections as permitted under applicable regulation.

Services: All trading, execution, platform access, copy trading functionality, educational resources, account management, customer support, and related services provided by Dominion Markets.

Settlement: The process by which profits, losses, swaps, rollover charges, and financial obligations arising from Transactions are calculated and reflected in the Client Account.

Spread: The difference between the bid and ask price quoted by the Company for a Financial Instrument.

Swap or Rollover: The overnight financing adjustment applied to positions held beyond a trading day, based on interest rate differentials or market conditions determined by the Company.

Transaction: Any trade executed or intended to be executed in a Financial Instrument through the Company.

Trading Hours: The periods during which trading in specific Financial Instruments is available as published on the Company's website or trading platforms.

Website: The official website(s) operated by Dominion Markets through which information, services, disclosures, and communications are made available to Clients.

High Frequency Trading (HFT): Trading characterized by extremely short holding periods, excessive order frequency, rapid order placement and cancellation, or strategies designed to exploit micro price movements, latency differences, or execution delays rather than genuine market exposure.

Latency Arbitrage: Any trading strategy that seeks to exploit delays in price feeds, execution timing, quote updates, or differences between liquidity providers, including stale price trading or asynchronous price execution.

Abusive Trading: Any trading activity that Dominion Markets reasonably determines is designed to exploit pricing errors, latency, system inefficiencies, execution delays, platform mechanics, or technological vulnerabilities, including but not limited to HFT, latency arbitrage, coordinated trading, and multi-account strategies.

Related Accounts: Accounts that Dominion Markets reasonably determines are connected through common ownership, control, trading strategy, IP address, device, VPS, funding source, or materially similar trading behavior.

Coordinated Trading: Trading activity conducted across multiple accounts, users, or systems, whether directly or indirectly, for the purpose of exploiting pricing discrepancies, execution conditions, or system inefficiencies.

Manifest Error: An obvious pricing, execution, or technical error resulting from system malfunction, data feed error, liquidity provider adjustment, or abnormal market conditions that materially affects the execution price or Transaction outcome.

1.2. These definitions shall apply throughout this Agreement unless the context otherwise requires. The Company reserves the right to amend or update definitions where necessary to reflect regulatory, operational, or technological developments.

2. ACCEPTANCE OF TERMS

2.1. By accepting this Agreement and each time you carry out a transaction through the platform, the Client represents, warrants, and covenants to Dominion Markets as follows.

2.2. The Client declares that they are at least eighteen (18) years of age, have full legal capacity to enter into this Agreement and to assume the obligations arising therefrom, and are not subject to any legal, regulatory, contractual, or judicial restrictions that limit or prevent the fulfilment of their commitments. Dominion Markets does not accept individual clients, account users, authorised representatives, or platform users who are under eighteen (18) years of age.

2.3. If the Client is acting on behalf of a legal entity, they declare that they have all the necessary corporate authorizations in accordance with their articles of incorporation and applicable regulations, and that the execution of this Agreement constitutes a valid and binding obligation.

2.4. The Client also declares that all funds delivered to Dominion Markets as a deposit, margin, or guarantee are their legitimate property and are free from any encumbrance, lien, pledge, right of retention, or third-party claim. The Client guarantees that these funds do not come from illegal activities and that their transfer complies with applicable laws on the prevention of money laundering and terrorist financing.

2.5. The Client also declares that all information provided to Dominion Markets, whether during the registration process or at any time thereafter, is complete, accurate, up-to-date, and not misleading in any material respect. The Client agrees to immediately notify Dominion Markets of any changes that may affect the accuracy of such information.

2.6. Additionally, the Client expressly acknowledges and agrees that Dominion

Markets provides order execution services exclusively and does not provide financial advice, investment recommendations, or suitability assessments. The execution of a transaction does not imply any approval, validation, or recommendation regarding the suitability or appropriateness of such transaction for the Client.

2.7. The Client acknowledges that trading currencies and other leveraged financial instruments involves a high level of risk, including the possibility of significant losses that may exceed the capital initially deposited. The Client declares that they fully understand these risks and that they have sufficient financial capacity to assume losses arising from their trading activity without compromising their financial situation.

2.8. The client also acknowledges that financial markets may be subject to different regulatory frameworks depending on the jurisdiction and the type of instrument traded, and that trading in certain products may not be covered by state compensation or investor protection schemes. Consequently, the client accepts that they assume the risks inherent in trading in such markets under their sole responsibility.

3. COMMUNICATIONS AND NEWSLETTERS

3.1. Dominion Markets may send users all types of notifications and communications necessary for the operation and administration of the website, including service updates, important notices about system operation, information related to account management, contractual communications, security alerts, reminders, and operational messages related to the features offered.

3.2. By using the service, the user agrees to receive these communications through the means provided, including email, notifications within the platform, or any other enabled channel. Users may opt out of receiving promotional communications by using the “unsubscribe” option included in emails or by adjusting their preferences in the notifications section of their account; however, Dominion Markets may continue to send communications strictly necessary for the provision, maintenance, and security of the service.

4. CLIENT CATEGORISATION

4.1. The Client acknowledges and accepts that, for regulatory and operational purposes, Dominion Markets may classify Clients into different categories, each of which carries a distinct level of regulatory protection and treatment. These categories may include, without limitation, retail clients, professional clients, and eligible counterparties, depending on the applicable regulatory framework and internal classification criteria.

4.2. Retail clients are generally afforded the highest level of regulatory protection, while professional clients and eligible counterparties are considered to possess greater experience, knowledge, financial capacity, and understanding of the risks associated with trading financial instruments. As a result, professional clients and eligible counterparties may receive a lower level of regulatory protection, including differences in disclosures, risk warnings, and certain operational safeguards.

4.3. The Client agrees that Dominion Markets shall rely on the accuracy, completeness, and truthfulness of the information provided during the account application process and throughout the business relationship for the purpose of determining the appropriate client categorization. The Client bears full responsibility for ensuring that all submitted information remains accurate and must promptly notify Dominion Markets in writing of any change that may affect their classification status, financial situation, trading experience, or investment objectives.

4.4. Subject to applicable laws and regulations, Dominion Markets reserves the right to review, reassess, and modify the Client’s categorization at any time based on updated information, regulatory requirements, or internal risk assessments. Any change in categorization may affect the level of protections, disclosures, and services available to the Client. Dominion Markets may notify the Client of such reclassification where required by applicable law

5. SERVICES

5.1. Subject to the Client’s compliance with the obligations set out in this Agreement, Dominion Markets may, acting reasonably and in good faith, provide access to a range of trading and related services through its Platform. These services may include receiving, transmitting, and executing Orders on a principal basis; facilitating the execution of Client instructions; providing access to Financial Instruments and related underlying markets; and offering any additional services, tools, or functionalities that Dominion Markets may introduce from time to time in accordance with this Agreement.

5.2. Dominion Markets operates under an execution-only model. Unless expressly agreed otherwise in writing, Dominion Markets has no obligation to monitor the Client’s trading activity, supervise transactions, manage risk exposure, adjust margin requirements on the Client's behalf, or close Open Positions to protect the Client from losses. Any action taken by Dominion Markets in this regard shall be discretionary and shall not create any ongoing duty or responsibility toward the Client.

5.3. The Client acknowledges that trading in CFDs does not involve the physical delivery or ownership transfer of the underlying asset. All transactions are settled on a contractual price difference basis only.

5.4. Dominion Markets reserves the right, where deemed necessary for operational, technical, liquidity, compliance, or risk management reasons, to delay confirmations of Orders or Transactions, suspend processing, partially execute instructions, refuse execution, or cancel Orders submitted to the Client's Account. Dominion Markets may also temporarily or permanently withdraw all or part of its Services at any time without obligation to provide justification, to the extent permitted by applicable law.

5.5. Dominion Markets does not provide investment advice, portfolio management, legal advice, tax advice, or any form of personal recommendation. The Client is solely responsible for evaluating the suitability, risks, and merits of any Transaction and for seeking independent professional advice where necessary. By placing an Order, the Client confirms possessing sufficient knowledge, experience, and understanding to assess the risks associated with trading leveraged Financial Instruments. Dominion Markets does not guarantee the suitability of any product and assumes no fiduciary duty toward the Client.

5.6. The use of automated trading tools such as Expert Advisors (EAs), copy trading features, trailing stop mechanisms, virtual private servers (VPS), bots, algorithms, APIs, or similar technologies shall be at the Client's sole risk and responsibility. Such tools depend entirely on the Client's terminal, configuration, connectivity, infrastructure, and any third-party software, signal provider, or service engaged by the Client. Dominion Markets shall bear no liability whatsoever for any loss, damage, execution error, delay, duplication of orders, malfunction, pricing discrepancy, or any other consequence arising from the use, misuse, failure, or improper configuration of automated trading systems, bots, third-party software, signal providers, or related technologies.

5.7. The Client shall not engage in high-frequency trading (HFT), ultra-low latency trading, order flooding, quote stuffing, tick scalping, arbitrage designed to exploit execution speed, or any trading strategy intended to take advantage of pricing inefficiencies, platform latency, system delays, or technological vulnerabilities, whether conducted manually or through the use of bots, automated systems, algorithms, APIs, VPS, or any third-party technology. The Client shall not operate multiple accounts, whether directly or indirectly, individually or in coordination with other parties, for the purpose of exploiting pricing discrepancies, execution delays, latency advantages, bonus abuse, or any trading advantage.

5.8. The Client shall not engage in coordinated trading, group trading, multi-account trading, or copy trading strategies designed to exploit pricing discrepancies, execution delays, latency advantages, or any system inefficiencies.

5.9. Where Dominion Markets, acting reasonably and in good faith, determines that any trading activity, with or without the use of automated systems, constitutes high-frequency trading, latency exploitation, or any similar abusive, manipulative, or illicit trading practice, Dominion Markets shall have the right, acting reasonably and in good faith, and where reasonably practicable without prior notice, to reject or cancel any Transactions, close open positions, void trades ab initio, reverse executions, adjust trade results, revoke any profits generated, recalculate account balances, restrict trading conditions, suspend the Client's Account, or terminate this Agreement.

5.10. Where liquidity providers, execution venues, or counterparties cancel, amend, or reject Transactions, Dominion Markets reserves the right to apply the same adjustment, cancellation, or amendment to the Client's Account, including the removal of any related profits.

5.11. Any profits, gains, or benefits derived from such activity shall be deemed invalid and not payable to the Client. Dominion Markets reserves the right to cancel, remove, deduct, or recover any such profits, including profits already withdrawn, and to recalculate the Client's Account accordingly. Any losses arising from such Transactions shall remain valid and enforceable. The Company's determination based on risk management review, trading patterns, execution data, or system logs shall be final and binding in the absence of manifest error. Dominion Markets reserves the right to make retroactive adjustments to any Transaction, profit, or account balance where abusive or prohibited trading is identified.

5.12. Where such amounts have already been withdrawn, the Client agrees that such amounts shall constitute a debt owed to Dominion Markets and shall be repayable immediately upon demand. Dominion Markets may recover such amounts by deducting them from any current or future balances held in any Account, including related or associated accounts, or by pursuing recovery action where necessary. Dominion Markets may also suspend withdrawals and restrict account activity while any investigation or recovery process is ongoing. Dominion Markets may also recover any administrative costs, investigation costs, legal fees, collection expenses, and interest (where permitted by law) incurred in connection with such recovery.

5.13. Dominion Markets reserves the right to cancel or adjust Transactions where multiple accounts, coordinated trading, copy trading, or third-party systems are used to exploit pricing discrepancies or execution conditions. The Company may also apply adjustments where liquidity providers amend or cancel trades. Dominion Markets may make retroactive corrections to Transactions, profits, or account balances where prohibited or abusive trading is identified.

5.14. Trading Practices Policy

5.15. Dominion Markets may publish trading practice guidance or prohibited trading practice notices on the Company's Website, Client Portal, or Trading Platform from time to time. Such guidance may be used to clarify the application of this Agreement but shall not limit Dominion Markets' rights under this Agreement.

5.16. The Client agrees to review and comply with such policy, as amended from time to time. The use of trading strategies or practices identified as prohibited in such policy may result in trade cancellation, profit revocation, account suspension, or termination in accordance with this Agreement.

5.17. Dominion Markets or its service providers may occasionally publish or distribute market news, research materials, analytics, trading ideas, newsletters, educational content, or general market commentary. Such information is provided solely for informational and educational purposes and shall not constitute investment advice, financial promotion, or recommendation. Dominion Markets makes no representation or warranty regarding the accuracy, completeness, timeliness, or reliability of such information, which may be incomplete, unverified, or subject to change without notice. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets may have acted or traded based on such information prior to its publication and that different Clients may receive information at different times.

5.18. The Client agrees not to redistribute any information that is expressly restricted to a particular audience or category of recipients. Any reliance placed on market commentary, educational material, or informational content is solely at the Client's own risk, and the Client waives any claim arising from reliance on information not provided as formal written advice.

5.19. Dominion Markets is not required to assess the suitability or appropriateness of Financial Instruments or Services when providing order execution services. Although Dominion Markets may request information regarding the Client's knowledge, experience, and investment background for regulatory purposes, failure by the Client to provide accurate or complete information may prevent Dominion Markets from determining appropriateness. Dominion Markets shall be entitled to rely on the information provided by the Client and shall not be liable for losses resulting from inaccurate, misleading, outdated, or incomplete information supplied by the Client.

5.20. For the purposes of execution, clearing, settlement, delivery, or custody of Transactions, Dominion Markets may appoint brokers, clearing members, liquidity providers, settlement agents, or other intermediaries as necessary. The Client authorizes Dominion Markets to engage such third parties where required for the proper provision of Services under this Agreement.

5.21. Cross-Border Services

5.22. The Client confirms that they have approached Dominion Markets on their own initiative and that no solicitation, marketing, or promotion has been conducted in the Client's jurisdiction where such activity is restricted.

5.23. The Client further acknowledges that the regulatory protections, investor safeguards, and compensation schemes applicable in the Client's country of residence may differ from those available under the laws and regulations of Mauritius.

5.24. By entering into this Agreement, the Client confirms that they understand and accept the risks associated with receiving services from a foreign jurisdiction.

5.25. Dominion Markets does not assess the suitability or appropriateness of any Financial Instrument or Transaction for the Client, except where required by applicable law.

5.26. The Client acknowledges that all trading decisions are made solely on their own initiative and that Dominion Markets does not provide any recommendation, endorsement, or opinion regarding the suitability of any Transaction.

5.27. The Client confirms having sufficient knowledge, experience, and understanding to evaluate the risks associated with trading leveraged Financial Instruments.

5.28. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets may act as principal counterparty to the Client's Transactions.

5.29. As a result, Dominion Markets may have interests that conflict with those of the Client, including situations where the Client's losses may correspond to gains for Dominion Markets.

5.30. Dominion Markets maintains internal policies and procedures to manage conflicts of interest fairly.

6. ACCOUNTS

6.1. To access the trading services offered by Dominion Markets, Clients must register and open an account in accordance with the applicable internal verification, identification, and regulatory compliance procedures. All transactions carried out by the Client (including orders, trades, open positions, deposits, withdrawals, and any other activity related to financial instruments) will be executed and recorded in their account held with Dominion Markets.

6.2. The Client's account may include one or more trading sub-accounts under the same contractual relationship. However, unless the Client has expressly requested the opening of separate accounts with independent treatment, they will be considered to have a single account with Dominion Markets, even if there are multiple sub-accounts associated with different products or operating configurations.

6.3. Dominion Markets offers users the following types of accounts:

- Standard STP (Straight Through Processing) Account
- ECN (Electronic Communication Network) Account
- Institutional ECN Account
- Islamic (Swap-Free) Account

6.4. Each account type may differ in aspects such as spread structure, commissions, margin requirements, minimum trade size, execution conditions, available leverage, swap treatment, and other technical or commercial conditions. The opening of certain account types may be subject to specific capital requirements, prior experience, client classification, or suitability assessment in accordance with internal policies and regulatory requirements. Dominion Markets reserves the right to modify, suspend, or discontinue any account type when it deems necessary.

6.5. Dominion Markets may perform calculations, reports, and administration separately for each Client Account or Sub-Account. Without limitation, margin calculations may be managed individually per Account, enforcement measures including automatic liquidations or forced closures may be taken independently for each Account, and Dominion Markets may aggregate one or more Accounts for reporting, margin management, operational consolidation, or any other purpose related to this Agreement, even if the Client does not have immediate access to a consolidated view of such Accounts.

6.6. The Client expressly agrees that Dominion Markets may offset any amount owed by the Client (including negative balances in one or more accounts) against any amount owed by Dominion Markets to the Client in another account. This right of offset may be exercised at any time and without prior notice, constituting an essential condition of this Agreement.

6.7. In addition, Dominion Markets may, with or without prior notice and in addition to any other rights provided for in this Agreement, take any actions it reasonably considers appropriate for risk management, regulatory compliance, or protection of market integrity, including closing or cancelling, in whole or in part, any Transaction, reducing the Client's position limit, rejecting Orders entered by the Client, temporarily or permanently suspending the Account, terminating this Agreement, adjusting the price, size, or value of an open position in the event of manifest error, abnormal market conditions, or technical failures, and modifying or increasing applicable margin coverage requirements.

6.8. Related Accounts

6.9. Dominion Markets may treat multiple Accounts as related where the Company reasonably determines that such Accounts share common characteristics, including but not limited to IP address, device or hardware identifiers, VPS or hosting infrastructure, payment method or funding source, trading strategy or execution pattern, signal provider or copy trading source, trading behaviour or correlation, or beneficial ownership or control. Where Accounts are determined to be related, Dominion Markets reserves the right, acting reasonably and in good faith, to consolidate such Accounts for risk management purposes, cancel profits across related Accounts, offset balances between related Accounts, restrict trading activity across related Accounts, suspend or terminate all related Accounts, and refuse future account openings associated with such Accounts.

6.10. These powers may be exercised, among other circumstances, in situations of extreme volatility, breach of contract, suspicion of market abuse or fraudulent activity, excessive credit risk, quote errors, regulatory requirements, or any circumstance that, in Dominion Markets' reasonable judgment, may affect operational stability or regulatory compliance.

6.11. The Client acknowledges that all trading decisions are made under their sole responsibility and that they must constantly monitor their open positions, maintain the required margin levels, and comply with the conditions applicable to their account type. Dominion Markets acts as a financial intermediary in accordance with its operating model and does not guarantee results, specific profitability, or the absence of losses arising from trading in the financial markets.

7. CFD TRADING PROCEDURES AND ORDER EXECUTION

7.1. Dominion Markets provides access to CFD trading through its electronic Trading Platform under market conditions that reflect prices obtained from multiple liquidity providers, financial institutions, and market venues. While Dominion Markets makes reasonable efforts to ensure that market observations and quoted prices are accurate and representative of prevailing market conditions, all quotes remain indicative and Dominion Markets does not guarantee that the prices displayed are the best prices available in the global market at any given time.

7.2. Liquidity Provider Adjustments

7.3. Dominion Markets may hedge, offset, or route Transactions to liquidity providers, prime brokers, execution venues, or other counterparties. Where any such third party cancels, rejects, reprices, amends, or adjusts a Transaction, Dominion Markets reserves the right to apply the same cancellation, amendment, repricing, or adjustment to the Client's Account, including the removal of any related profits.

7.4. The Client agrees that such adjustments shall be valid, binding, and not subject to dispute, except in the case of manifest error.

7.5. Market Watch prices, charts, and trading data available through the Platform are provided for informational and trading purposes only. Chart pricing may differ from executable prices depending on the Client's account type, spreads, liquidity conditions, execution model, or market environment. In the event that one or more pricing sources become unavailable, Dominion Markets may continue providing quotes based on alternative pricing sources or internal pricing mechanisms reflecting what Dominion Markets reasonably considers to be current bid and ask prices.

7.6. Orders may be submitted by the Client, or by an authorized person acting on the Client's behalf, exclusively through Dominion Markets' electronic Trading Platform using the Client's access credentials. Dominion Markets is entitled to rely on any Order received through valid login credentials without further verification, and such Orders shall be considered binding upon the Client. The Client remains fully responsible for monitoring positions and understanding the effect of each trade on their overall exposure, as Dominion Markets is not required to interpret trading intent or determine whether a trade opens or closes an existing position.

7.7. Dominion Markets reserves broad execution discretion where required for operational integrity, risk management, or market fairness. This includes the right to adjust prices or spreads, delay confirmations, requote prices, provide manual quotes instead of real-time executable quotes, reject or partially execute Orders, cancel Transactions, or recover trading profits obtained through pricing abuse or platform manipulation. Dominion Markets may also immediately terminate the business relationship where abusive trading practices are identified.

7.8. Orders are executed strictly according to their submitted parameters, and Dominion Markets has no obligation to verify the accuracy or intent of any Order. Once submitted, an Order constitutes an irrevocable instruction unless modification or cancellation remains technically possible. Orders may only be placed, modified, or cancelled during applicable trading hours. Pending Orders remain valid according to their selected duration, and where no validity period is specified, Dominion Markets may maintain or remove such Orders at its discretion, particularly where account equity reaches zero or becomes negative.

7.9. Trading conditions, including contract specifications, margin requirements, leverage levels, minimum trade sizes, spreads, swaps, and execution parameters, are published on the Dominion Markets website or Trading Platform and may be amended at any time without prior written notice to reflect market conditions. Standard lot sizing may include standard lots, mini lots, and micro lots as defined by Dominion Markets. Leverage ratios may vary depending on the instrument traded, account type, or prevailing risk conditions, and Dominion Markets may modify leverage settings at its discretion, including without prior notice where risk management requires such adjustment.

7.10. The Client acknowledges that leveraged trading increases both potential profits and potential losses. The Client confirms having read and understood the Risk Disclosure and accepts full responsibility for trading decisions made using leverage.

7.11. Dominion Markets may permit hedging strategies whereby Clients open opposing positions on the same instrument. However, certain hedging practices designed to exploit swap-free conditions, pricing discrepancies, or financing advantages are prohibited. Where such activity is detected, Dominion Markets may close positions, retroactively apply financing adjustments, restrict trading activity, or take additional corrective measures without prior notice.

7.12. Execution types may include instant execution or market execution depending on instrument class and market conditions. Under instant execution, Orders may be confirmed at the requested price if available or requoted if market prices change. Under market execution, Orders are filled at the best available market price at the time of execution, even if that price differs from the requested price. Slippage may occur under normal or abnormal market conditions, including during periods of volatility, reduced liquidity, market opening or closing, economic announcements, weekends, holidays, technical delays, or rapid price movement.

7.13. Stop Loss, Take Profit, Buy Limit, Sell Limit, Buy Stop, and Sell Stop Orders are executed once market prices reach the specified levels. During price gaps or rapid market movements, stop Orders may be executed at the next available market price rather than the specified level. Limit Orders are generally executed at the requested price or better when market liquidity allows.

7.14. Dominion Markets may restrict trading practices such as scalping, pip hunting, latency arbitrage, or other strategies considered disruptive to fair market operation, except where expressly permitted for specific account types. Where such behavior is detected, Dominion Markets may change the Client's account type, impose trading restrictions, cancel trades, apply commissions or penalties, close positions, terminate the Agreement, consolidate accounts, offset balances, refuse future account openings, or take other corrective measures deemed necessary.

7.15. Use of Third-Party Tools and VPS

The use of virtual private servers (VPS), APIs, automated systems, or any third-party software or infrastructure for the purpose of exploiting execution speed, pricing delays, latency differences, or market inefficiencies is strictly prohibited.

7.16. Where such activity is identified, the Company reserves the right to cancel Transactions, reverse profits, restrict trading activity, or terminate the Client's Account without prior notice.

7.17. Abusive Trading and Invalid Transactions

7.18. The Client shall not engage in any activity that exploits pricing errors, latency delays, system inefficiencies, or technological vulnerabilities of Dominion Markets' trading platform, including but not limited to latency arbitrage, price manipulation, exploitation of delayed or stale pricing, abusive scalping, or high-frequency trading strategies designed to gain an unfair advantage. Where Dominion Markets, acting reasonably and in good faith, determines that the Client has engaged in such activity, any affected Transactions may be declared void ab initio, any profits or gains derived from such activity may be cancelled and shall not be payable, Dominion Markets may reverse any credited profits, any losses shall remain valid and enforceable, and the Client's Account may be suspended or terminated. The Client acknowledges that any profit obtained through such activity shall not be considered legitimate earnings.

7.19. No Right to Profit- The Client acknowledges that profits generated through prohibited, abusive, suspicious, or manipulative trading activity do not create any entitlement or legal right to payment.

7.20. Dominion Markets reserves the right to cancel, retain, or reverse any such profits and adjust the Client's Account accordingly. Such profits shall not constitute legitimate earnings of the Client.

7.21. Protective Measures- Dominion Markets reserves the absolute right, acting reasonably and in good faith, to cancel trades, reverse profits, retain funds, suspend withdrawals, terminate accounts, and recover withdrawn amounts where the Company determines that the Client has engaged in suspicious, abusive, manipulative, or prohibited trading activity. Any profits derived from such activity shall be deemed invalid and not payable to the Client. Where reasonably practicable, Dominion Markets shall notify the Client of such action promptly after implementation.

7.22. The Client further acknowledges that prohibited trading practices are described in the Trading Practices Policy, which forms part of this Agreement. The Client agrees that any such action taken by Dominion Markets shall not give rise to any claim for damages, compensation, or loss of opportunity.

7.23. Quotes displayed on the Platform are derived from underlying market pricing but are determined by Dominion Markets' pricing methodology and may continue to be provided even when the underlying market is closed. Trading hours generally operate continuously during the global trading week, subject to instrument-specific schedules and routine platform maintenance periods during which trading functionality may be temporarily suspended.

7.24. The Client acknowledges that execution quality, pricing availability, spreads, swaps, and liquidity conditions may vary at any time and accepts that all trading activities are conducted subject to prevailing market conditions and the operational rules of Dominion Markets.

7.25. Dominion Markets shall take reasonable steps to execute Client Orders fairly, consistently, and in accordance with its execution model, pricing methodology, liquidity arrangements, trading conditions, and applicable regulatory obligations. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets may act as principal counterparty to the Client's Transactions and does not guarantee that every Order will be executed at the best available price in the wider market or that execution will be free from slippage, delay, rejection, partial execution, requote, or other market-related effects.

7.26. The Client accepts that execution factors may include price, speed, likelihood of execution, market conditions, and internal risk management considerations.

8. MARGIN AND DEPOSIT REQUIREMENTS

8.1. The client must provide and maintain at all times with Dominion Markets the funds necessary to meet the margin requirements applicable to open positions in their account. These requirements will be determined by Dominion Markets in accordance with its internal risk management policies, market conditions, account type, financial instrument traded, and any applicable regulatory requirements. Dominion Markets may modify the initial margin, maintenance margin, additional margin, or any other related requirements at any time, with or without prior notice, when it deems it reasonably necessary for proper risk management. No previously established margin requirement shall limit Dominion Markets' ability to increase it subsequently, even immediately.

8.2. The client acknowledges that trading in leveraged financial instruments may result in significant fluctuations in the value of the Account and that the Client is responsible for actively monitoring margin levels at all times. If the available equity in the Account does not meet the required margin requirements, Dominion Markets may issue a margin call, although it is not obligated to do so.

8.3. The Client accepts that, during volatile market conditions, sudden price movements, exchange rate fluctuations, financing adjustments, technical failures, or delays in communication systems, a margin call may be delayed or may not occur before automatic liquidation or other risk management measures are applied. Such circumstances may result in substantial losses and, in certain cases, an account deficit. Any negative balance or account deficit shall be handled in accordance with this Agreement, applicable laws, and the Company's internal procedures.

8.4. Dominion Markets reserves the right to limit the total amount, individual size, or number of open positions that the client may hold at any given time. Such limitations may be applied generally or specifically to certain financial instruments, account types, or market conditions. Dominion Markets may also, acting reasonably and in good faith, close one or more open positions when necessary to ensure compliance with established limits or to mitigate operational, credit, or regulatory risks.

8.5. The service provided by Dominion Markets is limited to the execution of transactions in accordance with its execution model, trading conditions, liquidity arrangements, pricing methodology, and applicable regulatory obligations. Dominion Markets will take reasonable steps to execute Client Orders fairly and consistently under its operating model; however, it does not guarantee that every Order will be executed at the best available price in the wider market or that execution will be free from slippage, delay, rejection, partial execution, requote, or other market-related effects.

8.6. The execution of orders will be subject to liquidity availability, market conditions, and possible slippage. Dominion Markets will not be liable for any loss or damage arising, directly or indirectly, from events beyond its reasonable control, including, without limitation, delays, failures, or interruptions in communication systems, data streams, electronic platforms, liquidity providers, or technological infrastructure. The Client accepts that such circumstances may affect the speed of execution, the final price of a trade, or the activation of automatic margin close-out mechanisms.

8.7. The Client acknowledges that trading leveraged Financial Instruments may result in significant losses and, in certain circumstances, may result in the loss of all funds held in the Account. The Client should not assume that losses are limited to the amount deposited unless this is expressly stated in this Agreement, the Company's applicable policies, or required under applicable law. Any negative balance or account deficit shall be handled in accordance with this Agreement, applicable laws, and the Company's internal procedures.

9. ORDER CONFIRMATIONS

9.1. All information relating to Order status, Transaction confirmations, Account balances, and trading activity shall be made available to the Client electronically through Dominion Markets' online Trading Platform and Client Portal. The Client acknowledges that continuous access to account information is provided through these electronic systems and that such access constitutes the primary method of communication and reporting between Dominion Markets and the Client.

9.2. The Client is required to provide and maintain a valid and active email address for communication purposes. The Client is solely responsible for ensuring that their contact details, including email address and personal information, remain accurate and up to date. The Client must promptly notify Dominion Markets of any changes to such information, as well as any failure to receive expected confirmations or any discrepancy identified in trading records or account statements.

9.3. Trade confirmations and account information displayed within the Trading Platform shall be deemed received by the Client once made available electronically. If the Client believes that a confirmation contains an error, inconsistency, or omission, or if no confirmation is received following a Transaction, the Client must notify Dominion Markets in writing without undue delay and, in any event, no later than two (2) Business Days from the date the confirmation became available. In the absence of such notification, all confirmations shall be considered final, conclusive, and binding upon the Client, except in cases of manifest error.

9.4. Dominion Markets reserves the right, at any time and without prior notice, to correct clerical errors, pricing mistakes, system inaccuracies, or omissions discovered in relation to any Transaction or Account record. The Client agrees that any such corrections may result in adjustments to profits, losses, balances, or transaction records, and that both positive and negative adjustments shall be applied directly to the Client's Account where necessary.

9.5. Dominion Markets shall provide the Client with ongoing online access to Account information sufficient to allow the Client to monitor trading activity, manage risk exposure, and comply with applicable reporting requirements. The Client accepts responsibility for regularly reviewing account information and monitoring trading activity through the Trading Platform.

10. REJECTIONS OF ORDERS, REQUESTS, AND CLIENT INSTRUCTIONS

10.1. Dominion Markets reserves the right, at any time, acting reasonably and in good faith, to refuse, decline, suspend, delay, or cancel the transmission or execution of any Order, request, or instruction submitted by the Client or any person authorized by the Client, including where Dominion Markets reasonably determines that such action is necessary to comply with applicable laws, regulations, internal policies, or risk management requirements. Where reasonably practicable, Dominion Markets shall notify the Client of such action.

10.2. The Client acknowledges and agrees that any action taken by Dominion Markets in accordance with this clause shall not give rise to any claim for damages, compensation, or specific performance, except to the extent required by applicable law.

10.3. Dominion Markets may exercise this right whenever it reasonably considers that execution would be inappropriate, impracticable, unlawful, or contrary to market integrity, operational stability, regulatory obligations, or risk management policies. Circumstances in which an Order or instruction may be rejected include, without limitation, submission of Orders before valid market quotations are available or during abnormal market conditions; insufficient free margin, lack of available funds, or inability of the Client's Account to support the proposed Transaction; unclear, incomplete, contradictory, or ambiguous instructions; Transactions involving volumes or pricing that Dominion Markets reasonably considers unsuitable, technically unfeasible, or impossible to hedge in the underlying market; absence of valid executable pricing, reliance on indicative quotes, expired quotes, manifestly erroneous prices, pricing spikes, or technical pricing errors; interruption or failure of internet connectivity, communication systems, trading infrastructure, or electronic transmission channels; suspected market abuse, manipulation, insider trading, scalping practices, latency arbitrage, pip hunting, or any trading behaviour considered abusive or disruptive; suspected involvement in money laundering, terrorist financing, fraud, or any unlawful activity; doubts concerning the authenticity of an Order or uncertainty regarding the Client's identity or authorisation; legal, regulatory, judicial, or supervisory requests, including instructions from competent authorities; termination or pending termination of the Agreement; occurrence of a Force Majeure Event; breach of this Agreement by the Client; absence of essential Order details or failure to meet minimum contract specifications, including minimum transaction size requirements; situations involving imminent corporate actions or market events affecting the relevant Financial Instrument; or excessive or abnormal submission of requests inconsistent with normal trading activity.

10.4. Dominion Markets shall be entitled to rely on its internal records, systems, and risk assessments when determining whether to reject an Order or instruction. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets is under no obligation to verify the intent behind an Order or to provide advance warning before refusing execution.

10.5. The refusal, cancellation, or non-execution of any Order shall not affect any existing obligations of the Client under this Agreement. Dominion Markets shall bear no liability for any loss, missed opportunity, or market movement resulting from the rejection or delay of an Order or instruction.

10.6. Unfair Advantage

10.7. Dominion Markets reserves the right, acting reasonably and in good faith, to cancel, refuse, or reverse any Transaction where the Client has taken unfair advantage of pricing errors, system delays, execution latency, abnormal market conditions, or any similar circumstance that may provide an unintended trading benefit. The Company may also cancel any related profits, adjust account balances, or take corrective action where necessary. The Company's determination in such cases shall be final and binding in the absence of manifest error.

10.8. Internal Records and Evidence

Dominion Markets may rely on its internal records and systems when assessing trading activity, disputes, or investigations, including without limitation server logs, execution timestamps, pricing feeds, liquidity provider reports, trading pattern analysis, risk management reviews, IP address and device data, VPS and network identifiers, and platform data and order routing records. Such records shall constitute prima facie evidence of the matters recorded, absent manifest error. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets is not obligated to disclose its full technical methodology, internal systems, or risk management procedures, except to the extent required by applicable law or regulatory obligation. Any determination made by Dominion Markets in relation to a dispute, investigation, or trading activity shall be made acting reasonably and in good faith and shall be binding on the Client in the absence of manifest error.

11. COMMISSIONS, FEES, AND EXPENSES

11.1. The Client shall be obligated to pay Dominion Markets all commissions, spreads, operating charges, fees, taxes, and other applicable costs arising from the trading of financial products offered through the platform. These amounts will be determined by Dominion Markets in accordance with its current fee structure and may vary depending on the type of account, financial instrument traded, trading volume, and market conditions. Information regarding commissions and fees will be communicated to the Client through the website, the trading platform, the Client's private area, or any other official means of communication enabled by Dominion Markets.

11.2. All commissions and fees shall be payable immediately upon generation. Dominion Markets shall be entitled to automatically deduct any amount owed by the Client from the funds available in their account, from the profits resulting from executed trades, or from any other balance that the Client maintains with Dominion Markets. In the event that the Client defaults on any amount owed, Dominion Markets may apply interest on the amounts due at a rate reasonably determined in accordance with its internal policies and applicable law, without prejudice to its right to take additional measures to recover the amounts due.

11.3. Dominion Markets may apply additional charges related to, among other things, the processing and management of fund withdrawals, currency conversion where transactions or fund movements are made in a currency other than the base currency of the Account, and inactivity fees where the Account remains inactive for a period established by Dominion Markets in accordance with its operating conditions.

11.4. The Client acknowledges that it is their responsibility to periodically review the information regarding commissions and charges applicable to their account. All payments made to Dominion Markets must be made free of any compensation, deduction, or withholding, unless such withholding is required by law, in which case the Client shall assume any additional amount necessary to ensure that Dominion Markets receives the full amount due to it under this Agreement.

12. PAYMENTS, DEPOSITS AND WITHDRAWALS

12.1. Dominion Markets facilitates deposits and withdrawals for the sole purpose of supporting trading activities conducted through the Client's Trading Account. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets is not a bank, does not accept deposits as a financial institution, and does not provide custody services unrelated to trading. Funds maintained by Dominion Markets are held exclusively to support margin requirements, settlement of Transactions, and other obligations arising under this Agreement.

12.2. The Client may fund their Account using payment methods accepted by Dominion Markets, which may include bank transfers, debit or credit cards, electronic payment systems, or approved e-wallet providers. Payment methods must generally be held in the Client's own name. Third-party payments are not accepted automatically and may only be considered in exceptional circumstances, subject to enhanced due diligence, verification of the actual payer or cardholder, relationship confirmation, source of funds review, consent documentation where required, and Compliance approval. Cash deposits are strictly prohibited and may be refused at all times.

12.3. Dominion Markets operates in accordance with applicable anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing regulations and may monitor deposits, withdrawals, and account activity to detect suspicious transactions. This monitoring may include review of fund flows, payment origins and destinations, transaction patterns, and any activity considered inconsistent with normal trading behaviours. Dominion Markets reserves the right to request identification documents, proof of source of funds, payment verification, or any additional documentation before processing deposits or withdrawals.

12.4. Dominion Markets may disclose Client information, trading data, transaction records, and investigation findings to regulators, competent authorities, law enforcement agencies, liquidity providers, financial institutions, or service providers where the Company reasonably considers such disclosure necessary for compliance with legal or regulatory obligations, investigation of suspicious activity, prevention of fraud or market abuse, or protection of market integrity.

12.5. The Client expressly consents to such disclosure and acknowledges that Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any consequences arising from such disclosure made in good faith.

12.6. Withdrawals shall be processed in accordance with Dominion Markets' internal operational procedures once a valid withdrawal instruction has been received and verified. Withdrawal requests will only be executed where sufficient free margin exists, all required information has been provided, and no outstanding obligations remain on the Client's Account. Payments will generally be made only to accounts registered in the Client's name, and Dominion Markets may refuse withdrawals to third parties, anonymous accounts, or payment methods inconsistent with regulatory or security requirements.

12.7. Withdrawal Restriction During Investigation

Dominion Markets reserves the right to suspend, delay, or refuse withdrawals where trading activity is under investigation, suspicious, abusive, or prohibited trading activity is suspected, liquidity provider or counterparty review is pending, regulatory, compliance, or risk management review is ongoing, or the Client's Account is subject to internal investigation. Withdrawals may remain suspended until the investigation is completed. Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any loss, delay, or inconvenience resulting from such restriction.

12.8. As a general principle, Dominion Markets may return deposited funds to the same payment method used for the original deposit, particularly for the initial funding transaction, in order to comply with financial crime prevention standards. Where multiple funding methods have been used, Dominion Markets may require withdrawals to be processed proportionally or sequentially through those same channels before alternative withdrawal methods are permitted.

12.9. Processing times for deposits and withdrawals may vary depending on banking systems, payment providers, verification procedures, regulatory reviews, or technical circumstances beyond Dominion Markets' control. Dominion Markets shall not be responsible for delays caused by banks, card processors, e-wallet providers, intermediary institutions, or regulatory restrictions.

12.10. All payment-related charges, including bank fees, currency conversion costs, processing commissions, or transfer expenses imposed by financial institutions or payment providers, shall be borne by the Client and may be deducted directly from the Client's Account. Dominion Markets reserves the right to apply service or processing fees where applicable and may amend such fees at its discretion.

12.11. Deposits and withdrawals may be made in approved currencies such as USD, EUR, GBP, or other currencies accepted by Dominion Markets. Where currency conversion is required, the applicable exchange rate shall be determined by the relevant bank, payment provider, or financial institution, and additional conversion charges may apply. Dominion Markets accepts no responsibility for exchange rate fluctuations or third-party conversion fees.

12.12. The Client is solely responsible for ensuring that payment details submitted to Dominion Markets are accurate and complete. Dominion Markets shall bear no liability for loss of funds resulting from incorrect payment information provided by the Client.

12.13. Dominion Markets reserves the right to refuse, delay, reverse, or suspend any deposit or withdrawal request where fraud, unauthorized payment activity, regulatory concerns, identity verification issues, or suspected unlawful conduct are identified. In such cases, Dominion Markets may take reasonable risk-mitigation actions, including returning funds to the original source, freezing account balances, closing Accounts, cancelling profits or Transactions obtained through irregular activity, reporting matters to competent authorities, or initiating legal proceedings where appropriate.

12.14. Credit card deposits must generally be made using cards issued in the Client's name and processed directly through Dominion Markets' official website or Client Portal. Where a credit card held by a third party is used or proposed to be used, the transaction shall be subject to additional review, due diligence on the actual cardholder, verification of the relationship with the Client, source of funds checks, consent documentation where required, and Compliance approval. Dominion Markets may reject, delay, reverse, refund, suspend, or hold any card payment where verification requirements are not satisfied or where AML/CFT, sanctions, fraud, chargeback, regulatory, or reputational concerns arise.

12.15. Dominion Markets may retain or delay withdrawal payments where disputes, investigations, or payment verification procedures are ongoing. The Client agrees to bear all reasonable costs incurred by Dominion Markets in connection with payment disputes, including administrative, banking, or legal expenses where permitted by applicable law.

12.16. If the Client's Account balance becomes insufficient to satisfy obligations owed to Dominion Markets, the Client shall immediately pay any outstanding amount upon demand. Dominion Markets shall be entitled to offset any funds held in the Client's Accounts against outstanding liabilities in accordance with this Agreement.

12.17. Dominion Markets may amend payment procedures, accepted payment methods, transfer limits, or applicable fees at any time where necessary for operational, regulatory, or risk management purposes. Any such changes shall become effective upon publication on the website or notification through the Client Portal.

12.18. Where operational support or back-office services are provided by affiliated entities or related service providers, all obligations relating to payments, refunds, and financial processing shall remain the responsibility of Dominion Markets, which shall ensure that Clients retain full recourse regarding payment matters under this Agreement.

12.19. The Company may withhold or delay withdrawals where an investigation into abusive or suspicious trading activity is ongoing.

13. SECURITY INTERESTS, LIENS, AND SET-OFF

13.1. All funds, securities, financial instruments, currencies, and any other assets held by the Client with Dominion Markets, whether individually, jointly, or as guarantor for another account, and which are in the possession, custody, control, or recorded in the books of Dominion Markets or its affiliates, shall be deemed to have been delivered as a continuing security for the performance of all present and future obligations of the Client under this Agreement.

13.2. Such assets shall be subject to a general lien and set-off right in favour of Dominion Markets with respect to any financial obligation, actual or contingent, present or future, that the Client has to Dominion

Markets, regardless of whether such obligations are linked to one or more accounts and regardless of whether Dominion Markets has made advances in relation to such assets.

13.3. Allocation and Transfer of Client Funds

Dominion Markets may, acting reasonably and in good faith and where reasonably necessary, apply, transfer, or reallocate all or part of the Client's funds or other assets between any Accounts held by the Client with Dominion Markets in order to satisfy any outstanding obligations owed by the Client, maintain applicable margin requirements, or manage operational or credit risk. Where reasonably practicable, Dominion Markets shall notify the Client of any such action.

13.4. Without prejudice to any other contractual or legal rights it may have, Dominion Markets may at any time and without prior notice offset any amounts owed between the Client and Dominion Markets, whether immediately or in the future, liquid or contingent. As a continuing security for the performance of all obligations secured under this Agreement, the client grants Dominion Markets a first-ranking security interest in all funds and assets currently or in the future delivered, deposited, or held in its account, or under the custody, control, or direction of Dominion Markets, its affiliates, or its designated representatives.

13.5. The Client represents and warrants that all funds and assets transferred to Dominion Markets under this Agreement are free from any encumbrance, lien, third-party right, or limitation on disposition other than any security or set-off rights granted in favour of Dominion Markets under this Agreement. Dominion Markets may use, transfer, or apply Client funds only to the extent permitted by applicable law, regulatory requirements, this Agreement, and the Company's client money, margin, settlement, hedging, liquidity management, and operational procedures.

13.6. The client agrees that Dominion Markets may apply such assets in full or partial satisfaction of any past due and payable obligation that remains unpaid, without the need for prior legal proceedings and without prejudice to any other rights or actions that may correspond to Dominion Markets under this Agreement or applicable law.

13.7. Indemnity

The Client agrees to indemnify and hold harmless Dominion Markets, its affiliates, directors, officers, employees, agents, liquidity providers, and service providers from and against any losses, damages, costs, claims, liabilities, expenses, or charges (including legal and administrative costs) arising from or related to abusive or prohibited trading activity, high-frequency trading, latency arbitrage or execution exploitation, use of automated systems, bots or third-party trading tools, coordinated or multi-account trading, suspicious or fraudulent activity, liquidity provider losses or trade adjustments, breach of this Agreement by the Client, or regulatory investigations or enforcement actions arising from the Client's conduct. This indemnity shall survive termination of this Agreement and closure of the Client's Account.

14. ONLINE TRADING SYSTEMS, MOBILE TRADING SERVICES AND SECURITY

14.1. Dominion Markets provides Clients with access to electronic trading services through online trading platforms, web-based terminals, and mobile trading applications that allow the electronic transmission of Orders, management of Accounts, and monitoring of trading activity. Access to these systems is granted solely for the purpose of managing the Client's own Trading Account(s) and conducting trading activities under this Agreement.

14.2. The mobile trading service includes all software applications, communication links, platform interfaces, and related functionalities installed or accessed through the Client's mobile device. The Client agrees to use such services exclusively for personal trading purposes and acknowledges that system availability may depend on third-party networks, device configuration, operating systems, and telecommunications infrastructure beyond Dominion Markets' control.

14.3. Dominion Markets shall provide the Client with access credentials, including usernames, passwords, or other authentication mechanisms required to access the Trading Platform. Dominion Markets reserves the right to suspend, reset, or replace access credentials at any time for security reasons, including where Accounts remain inactive for extended periods or where unauthorized access is suspected.

14.4. The Client is strictly responsible for safeguarding all access credentials and must take all reasonable steps to prevent unauthorized access to the Trading Platform or mobile trading services. The Client shall not permit any unauthorized person to access or use the systems and must immediately notify Dominion Markets if there is any suspicion of disclosure, loss, theft, or unauthorized use of login credentials. Upon such notification, Dominion Markets may suspend access and issue replacement credentials. The Client agrees to cooperate fully with any investigation relating to misuse or suspected misuse of Account access.

14.5. All Orders submitted using valid access credentials shall be deemed authorized by the Client and legally binding, regardless of whether the Client personally initiated the transaction. The Client assumes full responsibility for monitoring Account activity and promptly reporting any discrepancies relating to balances, transactions, or trading history.

14.6. The Client shall not engage in any activity that may compromise, interfere with, damage, or disrupt the integrity, performance, or security of Dominion Markets' electronic systems. Prohibited conduct includes attempting unauthorized system access, introducing malicious software, automating access through unauthorized tools, extracting data without permission, or otherwise interfering with platform functionality. Dominion Markets may restrict, suspend, or terminate system access where misuse or security risks are reasonably suspected.

14.7. The Client is solely responsible for obtaining, maintaining, and operating the hardware, software, internet connection, and equipment necessary to access the Trading Platform or mobile trading services. Dominion Markets does not guarantee uninterrupted availability of electronic systems and acknowledges that, from time to time, services may be unavailable due to maintenance, technical failures, market conditions, or external factors. Alternative communication methods may be made available for order transmission where reasonably practicable.

14.8. Information made available through the website or Trading Platform may be viewed, stored, or printed solely for the Client's personal use. The Client shall not reproduce, distribute, publish, transmit, modify, or commercially exploit such information without prior written authorization from Dominion Markets, nor remove any copyright, trademark, or proprietary notices associated with the information or software.

14.9. The Client agrees not to copy, modify, reverse engineer, decompile, disassemble, translate, or otherwise attempt to derive the source code of any software provided by Dominion Markets, nor use the platform as a service bureau, training environment for third parties, or commercial intermediary service.

14.10. Dominion Markets may restrict access to electronic systems where necessary to maintain operational stability, protect market integrity, ensure system security, or safeguard the interests of Clients and the Company. Access to Dominion Markets' electronic systems is granted on a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable basis for the Client's internal trading purposes only.

14.11. The Client acknowledges that electronic communications transmitted via the internet, mobile networks, email systems, or other communication channels may be vulnerable to interception, delay, corruption, or unauthorized access. Dominion Markets shall not be responsible for losses arising from unauthorized access to information, electronic communications, personal data, or access credentials transmitted through such communication systems where the risk is outside Dominion Markets' reasonable control.

15. DEFAULT AND ENFORCEMENT OF CUSTOMER ASSETS

15.1. Any of the following circumstances shall constitute an event of default ("Event of Default"):

- The Client fails to make any payment due under this Agreement on the applicable date.
- The client fails to perform, in whole or in part, any of its obligations under this Agreement or commits a material breach of any representations, warranties, or covenants made to Dominion Markets.
- The client dies, is declared legally absent, incapacitated, or judicially declared incapable of managing its assets.
- A request for bankruptcy, receivership, insolvency, or similar proceeding is filed with respect to the Client; or, in the case of a legal entity, reorganization, liquidation, receivership, or any similar proceeding is commenced under applicable law, including the appointment of an administrator, liquidator, trustee, or equivalent over its assets or any part thereof;
- Dominion Markets or the Client is required by a competent regulatory authority to close all or part of any agreement, position, or contractual relationship.
- Dominion Markets reasonably considers it necessary to take measures for its own protection against financial, credit, operational, or regulatory risks.
- The Client has acted, or Dominion Markets has reasonable grounds to believe that the Client has acted, in an abusive, fraudulent, manipulative or contrary to market rules manner, including practices that may constitute market abuse, misuse of privileged information, improper arbitrage, price manipulation or any conduct that violates the trading rules established by Dominion Markets.

15.2. In the event of an Event of Default, Dominion Markets may, without prior notice or additional authorization from the client and without prejudice to any other contractual or legal rights it may have:

- Close all or part of any agreement, open position, or set of transactions.
- Cancel pending orders.
- Suspend or block the client's access to their account.
- Terminate this Agreement with immediate effect.
- Execute, realize, or liquidate any of the client's assets, funds, or financial instruments in the possession, custody, or control of Dominion Markets.
- Offset balances in accordance with the rights of retention and set off provided for in this Agreement.

15.3. The realization or liquidation of the client's assets may be carried out under the conditions and at the price that Dominion Markets deems reasonably appropriate in accordance with market conditions at the time of execution. The client acknowledges that such realization may be carried out without prior notice and that prevailing market conditions may affect the liquidation value of the assets.

15.4. Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any loss arising from the exercise of these powers when such measures have been taken in good faith and in accordance with this Agreement and applicable regulations. The Client shall remain liable for any outstanding balance or deficit remaining after the liquidation of their positions or assets.

15.5. Burden of Proof and Supporting Evidence

Where Dominion Markets has reasonable grounds to suspect that the Client has engaged in abusive, manipulative, fraudulent, unlawful, suspicious, or prohibited trading activity, the Client shall be responsible for providing, upon request, sufficient information, explanation, and supporting evidence to demonstrate that the relevant trading activity, funding activity, account activity, or conduct was legitimate and compliant with this Agreement.

Dominion Markets may rely on objective indicators and internal records when assessing such activity, including trading patterns, execution timing, pricing discrepancies, liquidity provider feedback, server logs, IP address data, device identifiers, account-linkage indicators, payment information, communication records, and other system or compliance data available to the Company.

Dominion Markets shall not be required to prove dishonest intention, fraud, or unlawful purpose where the available evidence reasonably indicates prohibited, abusive, suspicious, or non-compliant activity. Any determination by Dominion Markets under this clause shall be made reasonably, in good faith, and in accordance with this Agreement, applicable law, regulatory obligations, and available evidence.

Failure by the Client to provide satisfactory information or supporting evidence within the timeframe requested by Dominion

Markets may be taken into account by the Company when deciding whether to cancel Transactions, reverse profits, suspend withdrawals, restrict the Account, terminate the Agreement, report the matter to competent authorities, or take any other action permitted under this Agreement.

16. CLIENT FUNDS AND TRANSFER OF FUNDS

16.1. All funds deposited by the client with Dominion Markets for the purpose of trading in financial markets will be held in accordance with applicable regulatory obligations in segregated accounts, separate from Dominion Markets' own funds. These funds will be deposited with financial institutions or payment service providers that have been duly evaluated and selected by Dominion Markets in accordance with its internal due diligence and risk management policies. The purpose of this segregation is to protect client funds from internal operational risks, without this implying an absolute guarantee against third-party risks.

16.2. Dominion Markets may hold the funds of different Clients in the same global segregated account (omnibus account). In this case, Dominion Markets' internal records will reflect the proportion corresponding to each Client at all times, even if the funds are not physically identified individually at the depository institution.

16.3. Unless otherwise expressly instructed by the Client, Dominion Markets may transfer client funds to third parties when necessary for the execution of trades, settlement of transactions, maintenance of positions, compliance with regulatory obligations, or operational management. Such third parties may include, among others, banks, liquidity providers, intermediaries, clearing houses, settlement agents, OTC counterparties, or payment service providers. Such third parties may have rights of retention, security, or set-off over the funds held in their accounts in accordance with applicable law and the relevant contractual agreements.

16.4. Client funds may be held with third parties located within or outside the jurisdiction where Dominion Markets is regulated. If funds are deposited with institutions located abroad, the applicable legal and regulatory regime may differ from the local regime, and in the event of insolvency, bankruptcy, or similar proceedings of the third-party depository, the funds may be subject to treatment different from that which would apply if they were held directly by Dominion Markets or within its primary regulatory jurisdiction. Dominion Markets shall not be liable for the insolvency, acts, or omissions of such third parties, provided that their selection has been made in accordance with reasonable standards of diligence.

16.5. When funds are held by a third party in an omnibus account, it may not be possible to separate them individually from the funds of other Clients or from the third party itself. In the event of the third party's insolvency, Dominion Markets may only have an unsecured claim against such third party on behalf of its Clients, which could mean that the funds recovered may be insufficient to satisfy all claims of all affected Clients. The Client expressly acknowledges and accepts this risk, and Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any direct or indirect losses arising from such circumstances.

16.6. Dominion Markets will not pay interest on Client funds held in segregated accounts.

The Client expressly authorizes Dominion Markets to deposit such funds in bank accounts that may generate interest or financial returns in favour of Dominion Markets. The Client expressly waives any right to claim interest or profits derived from the maintenance of their funds, except for profits obtained exclusively through their own trading operations.

16.7. By accepting this Agreement, the client authorizes Dominion Markets to process deposits and withdrawals to and from the bank accounts or payment methods designated by the client, including transfers necessary for the settlement of transactions, the payment of commissions, applicable charges, or any other amount due under this Agreement. Dominion Markets may reject or delay withdrawal requests when there are outstanding obligations, regulatory requirements to be met, or additional verifications necessary in accordance with its compliance and anti-money laundering policies.

16.8. The Client acknowledges that, while Dominion Markets takes reasonable steps to safeguard Client funds in accordance with applicable regulatory requirements, funds held with third-party institutions may be subject to risks including insolvency, bankruptcy, or operational failure of such institutions.

16.9. In such circumstances, the Client may not have full recovery of funds, and Dominion Markets shall not be liable for losses arising from the failure of such third parties, provided that reasonable care was exercised in their selection.

17. CURRENCY FLUCTUATIONS, CONVERSION AND PRICE VARIATIONS

17.1. The Client acknowledges that any transaction involving trading in foreign currencies or instruments denominated in a currency other than the base currency of their account will be subject to exchange rate variations and price fluctuations inherent in the financial markets. Any profit or loss resulting from changes in conversion rates will be borne entirely by the Client, who accepts that such variations may occur rapidly, unpredictably, and significantly.

17.2. Initial and subsequent deposits to cover margin requirements must be made in U.S. dollars (USD) or any other currency expressly accepted by Dominion Markets. Once the base currency of the Account has been determined, additional deposits must be made in the same currency, unless expressly authorized otherwise. Dominion Markets may, acting reasonably and in good faith, establish the minimum amounts required for initial margin and maintenance margin, as well as modify such requirements based on market conditions.

17.3. When necessary for margin, settlement, clearing, or operational management purposes, Dominion Markets shall be authorized to convert funds available in the client's account to or from other currencies. Such conversions shall be made at the exchange rate reasonably determined by Dominion Markets based on the prevailing rates in the money market at the time of the transaction, including applicable conversion costs.

17.4. The Client acknowledges that price gaps or jumps may occur, both at the opening of the market and during the trading session, especially in conditions of high volatility or low liquidity. Such movements may generate losses that exceed the margin available in the Account and may result in an account deficit. Any negative balance or account deficit shall be handled in accordance with this Agreement, applicable laws, and the Company's internal procedures.

18. ISLAMIC ACCOUNTS (SWAP-FREE)

18.1. Trading with leveraged financial instruments, including CFDs and Forex, means that the Client trades on a margin basis, i.e., by contributing only a fraction of the total value of the open position. As a result of this mechanism, each position held open beyond the daily market close may generate financing costs, interest, or swap adjustments, which reflect the implicit financing component derived from the difference between the total nominal value of the agreement and the margin provided.

18.2. In order to serve Clients who, due to Islamic religious beliefs, cannot receive or pay interest or financial charges associated with maintaining open positions, Dominion Markets may offer "Swap-Free" or Islamic accounts. The granting of this type of account does not constitute an automatic right of the client and will be subject to prior evaluation. Dominion Markets may request reasonable documentation or justification to prove the legitimate need for this type of account. Likewise, Dominion Markets reserves the right to reject, acting reasonably and in good faith and without further explanation, any request for conversion to a swap-free account.

18.3. The Client declares and guarantees that the request for a swap-free account is based exclusively on genuine Islamic religious beliefs and does not pursue commercial, strategic, or arbitrage purposes. Dominion Markets may revoke the swap-free status of an account at any time when, in its reasonable judgment, it considers that such an account is being used improperly or contrary to the purpose for which it was intended.

- Dominion Markets may withdraw swap-free status and take corrective measures, including closing open positions or converting the account to standard mode, when it detects circumstances such as:
- Systematic maintenance of positions for extended periods for the purpose of taking advantage of differential conditions.
- Use of strategies involving interest arbitrage, cash-back, manipulation of financing costs, or any form of undue advantage.
- Behaviour indicating abuse, fraud, or misleading use of the swap-free benefit.
- Exceptional market conditions or changes in the cost structure that make it unfeasible to maintain the swap-free regime.

18.4. In the event of revocation, Dominion Markets may recalculate and retroactively apply financing adjustments that were not charged during the period in which the account operated under the swap-free modality, as well as impose commissions or charges equivalent to those applicable to standard accounts. It may also limit hedging strategies, restrict new positions, or, in serious cases, close the Client's accounts.

18.5. The client acknowledges that any costs arising from such measures, including spread adjustments, commissions, or financial recalculations, shall be their sole responsibility. The granting and maintenance of a swap - free account shall always be subject to continued compliance with the terms of this Agreement and Dominion Markets' internal risk management policy.

19. SETTLEMENT DATE AND AUTOMATIC ROLLOVER OF POSITIONS

19.1. Spot transactions and certain financial instruments traded through Dominion Markets may be subject to specific settlement dates in accordance with the practices of the relevant market. When a position remains open beyond its original settlement date, it may be subject to automatic rollover to the next available settlement period.

19.2. The Client expressly authorizes Dominion Markets to automatically roll over all open spot positions in their account when they have not been closed before the applicable settlement date. Such rollover shall be at the client's sole risk and expense and shall be subject to the financial conditions prevailing at the time of the rollover, including adjustments for interest rate differences, financing costs, additional spreads, or any other charges applicable under the market structure.

19.3. In the event that the Client does not provide timely instructions regarding the closing, rollover, or delivery of a position prior to the settlement date, Dominion Markets shall be entitled, acting reasonably and in good faith, to roll over all or part of the position to the next settlement period, offset open positions, proceed with settlement of the position at the available market price, or make or receive delivery where applicable under the traded instrument, as reasonably determined based on prevailing market conditions.

19.4. Dominion Markets will determine the terms and methods of execution of the rollover or settlement in accordance with its internal policies, market practices, and prevailing liquidity conditions.

19.5. The Client acknowledges that rollovers may result in additional costs or financial adjustments and agrees that any resulting gains or losses will be borne entirely by the Client.

19.6. The Client's failure to act prior to the settlement date shall not give rise to any liability on the part of Dominion Markets for decisions made in the exercise of the powers provided herein, provided that such decisions have been made in good faith and in accordance with reasonable operational and risk management criteria.

20. CLIENT RISK ACKNOWLEDGEMENT AND CONSENTS

20.1. The Client acknowledges, understands, and expressly accepts that trading Contracts for Difference (CFDs), foreign exchange instruments, futures, and other leveraged Financial Instruments involves a high level of financial risk and may not be suitable for all investors. The Client recognizes that trading may result in substantial losses, including the loss of the entire amount deposited in the Trading Account, together with commissions, fees, financing charges, and any additional costs incurred in connection with trading activities. The Client confirms willingness and financial ability to bear such risks.

20.2. The Client understands that leveraged trading amplifies both potential profits and potential losses. Because margin trading allows positions to be opened with relatively small deposits compared to the total contract value, even minor market movements may lead to significant gains or substantial losses. The Client acknowledges that leveraged transactions create contingent liabilities and may require the rapid provision of additional funds to maintain open positions if market conditions move adversely or margin requirements increase.

20.3. The Client further acknowledges that foreign exchange markets and derivative markets may be highly volatile and unpredictable. Currency fluctuations, pricing gaps, market liquidity changes, macroeconomic announcements, political developments, or extraordinary market conditions may materially affect the value of positions. Where trading involves instruments denominated in foreign currencies, additional exchange rate risk may arise.

20.4. The Client understands that trading through electronic online trading systems and mobile trading services carries technological and operational risks. Access to trading platforms may be limited, delayed, interrupted, or unavailable during periods of high market volatility, system maintenance, technical failures, communication disruptions, or circumstances beyond Dominion Markets' control. Dominion Markets and its service providers do not guarantee uninterrupted access, error-free functionality, or the accuracy, timeliness, completeness, or reliability of market data, trading information, or system performance. The Client accepts full responsibility for any losses, missed opportunities, execution delays, or increased costs resulting from the inability to access or use electronic trading services.

20.5. The Client acknowledges that CFDs are over the counter (OTC) derivative products and do not involve the delivery, ownership, or transfer of any underlying asset. Trading CFDs constitutes speculation on price movements rather than investment in the underlying instrument, and no ownership rights or entitlement to physical delivery arise from such transactions. The Client further accepts that no interest shall accrue on funds held within the Trading Account unless expressly stated otherwise.

20.6. The Client confirms that Dominion Markets does not provide investment advice, portfolio management, legal advice, or tax advice. Any market commentary, research material, trading signals, educational resources, promotional information, or market analysis provided by Dominion Markets constitutes general information only and does not represent personalised investment advice or recommendation. The Client assumes full responsibility for any reliance placed upon such information and agrees to indemnify and hold Dominion Markets harmless from any loss, claim, damage, or expense arising from decisions made based on such materials.

20.7. The Client acknowledges that all trading decisions, transactions, and resulting gains or losses are undertaken entirely at the Client's own risk. Market price fluctuations affecting Financial Instruments held in the Client's Account remain solely the Client's responsibility at all times. By entering into this Agreement, the Client confirms being financially capable of sustaining potential losses arising from trading activities.

20.8. The Client consents to Dominion Markets providing disclosures, notices, contractual updates, fee information, risk warnings, and other relevant communications through publication on the website or Client Portal. The Client confirms having regular access to the internet and agrees that electronic publication constitutes valid delivery of such information.

20.9. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets shall not be liable for losses resulting from the insolvency, bankruptcy, liquidation, administration, or failure of any bank, liquidity provider, clearing broker, exchange, payment institution, custodian, or similar third party involved in holding funds, executing Transactions, or facilitating market access.

20.10. By accepting this Agreement, the Client confirms full understanding of the nature and risks of leveraged trading and provides informed consent to engage in trading activities through Dominion Markets under these conditions.

21. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

21.1. The Client acknowledges that trading leveraged financial instruments, including foreign exchange (Forex), CFDs, and other derivatives, involves a high level of financial risk and can result in substantial losses, even exceeding the initial capital deposited. Consequently, the Client assumes full and exclusive responsibility for all investment decisions made through their account and for any financial results derived from their trading activity.

21.2. Dominion Markets provides services under an execution-only model and does not act as a financial advisor, investment manager, or fiduciary to the Client. No information published on the website, trading platform, promotional materials, market analysis, webinars, educational content, analytical tools, market signals, or communications from the support team should be interpreted as personalised recommendations, financial advice, a guarantee of profitability, or confirmation of the suitability of a specific transaction. The client agrees that any investment decision is made based on their own judgment, experience, and independent risk assessment.

21.3. To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any direct or indirect losses, incidental, consequential, special, or punitive damages that may arise as a result of, among other things:

- Adverse market movements, extreme volatility, price gaps, macroeconomic events, or lack of liquidity.
- Slippage, order rejections, quote variations, partial execution, or delays in order streaming.
- Technical failures, electronic system interruptions, internet connectivity issues, software errors, scheduled maintenance, cyberattacks, or technological infrastructure failures.
- Acts or omissions of third parties, including liquidity providers, banks, custodians, clearing houses, payment providers, or financial institutions where client funds are held.
- Insolvency or operational failures of third parties holding funds in segregated or omnibus accounts.
- Currency conversion, application of exchange rates, financing adjustments, rollovers, or interest rate differences.
- Measures taken by Dominion Markets in accordance with this Agreement, including forced closures, margin adjustments, account suspension, or agreement termination.
- Misuse of credentials when the Client has not adequately protected their access information.

21.4. In relation to Copy Trading services, if available on the platform, the client acknowledges that copying or following other traders' strategies involves additional risks. Dominion Markets does not guarantee the future performance of copied strategies or the accuracy, experience, solvency, or track record of the traders being followed. Past performance is not indicative of future results. The Client accepts that any decision to copy a strategy is voluntary and under their sole responsibility, and that Dominion Markets will not be liable for losses arising from decisions made in the context of Copy Trading, including delays in replication, execution differences, liquidity variations, or the closure of strategies by the original trader.

21.5. Likewise, any educational resources offered by Dominion Markets—including guides, articles, videos, technical analysis, simulators, or demo accounts—are for informational and educational purposes only. Such content does not constitute professional advice and does not replace the Client's independent judgment. Dominion Markets does not guarantee the accuracy, completeness, or continuous updating of such materials, nor shall it be liable for decisions made based on them.

21.6. Dominion Markets does not guarantee the continuous and uninterrupted availability of the platform or the absence of technical errors. The Client acknowledges that the services are provided through complex technological infrastructures that may be affected by factors beyond the reasonable control of Dominion Markets, including force majeure events such as natural disasters, conflicts, government restrictions, telecommunications interruptions, or failures of external providers.

21.7. In no event shall Dominion Markets' total cumulative liability to the client, whether contractual, extra-contractual, or otherwise, exceed the total amount of commissions actually received by Dominion Markets from the client during the three (3) months prior to the event giving rise to the claim, unless otherwise required by mandatory law.

21.8. Nothing in this clause shall exclude or limit Dominion Markets' liability in cases where such limitation is prohibited by applicable law. The provisions of this section shall remain in force even after the termination of the Agreement.

21.9. The Client confirms that they have not relied on any representation, statement, or communication by Dominion Markets or its representatives as investment advice or a recommendation to enter into any Transaction.

21.10. All decisions are made independently by the Client.

22. COPYRIGHTS

22.1. Dominion Markets owns or holds valid licenses for all intellectual property rights in the website, trading platform, mobile applications, and related services. These rights are protected under applicable copyright, trademark, and intellectual property laws. The use of Dominion Markets' services does not grant the Client any ownership rights in such intellectual property.

22.2. All content available on the website, trading platform, mobile applications, and other digital environments of Dominion Markets, including but not limited to: texts, legal documents, graphics, logos, trademarks, trade names, databases, software, source and object codes, interfaces, designs, images, videos, educational material, market analysis, technical tools, algorithms, Copy Trading features, and any other audiovisual or technological material or element (collectively, the “Content”) is the exclusive property of Dominion Markets or is duly licensed to it, and is protected by applicable national and international laws on intellectual property, copyright, trademarks, and unfair competition.

22.3. Unless expressly authorized in writing by Dominion Markets, the Client may not copy, reproduce, distribute, modify, adapt, translate, transmit, publish, license, decompile, reverse engineer, commercially exploit, or create derivative works from the Content, in whole or in part, by any means or in any form. Access to the website and platform does not grant the client any ownership rights or implied license to Dominion Markets' intellectual property rights, beyond a limited, non-exclusive, revocable, and non-transferable license to use the services in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

22.4. The client agrees not to use the Content for any unlawful or competitive purposes or in any way that may harm the commercial interests of Dominion Markets.

22.5. The automated use of data extraction systems, scraping, data mining, or any similar technology intended to collect information from the website or platform without prior written authorization is expressly prohibited. Dominion Markets' trademarks, logos, and trade names may not be used in connection with third-party products or services, or in any manner that may cause confusion, discredit, or improper association.

22.6. Any unauthorized use may result in civil and/or criminal action in accordance with applicable law.

22.7. If the client posts comments, opinions, reviews, or other content in interactive areas of the website, they grant Dominion Markets a worldwide, free, irrevocable, and non-exclusive license to use, reproduce, adapt, and publish such content for commercial or promotional purposes, always in compliance with applicable regulations.

22.8. The protection of intellectual property rights is an essential element of the contractual relationship. Dominion Markets reserves the right to suspend or cancel the client's access to the platform in the event of actual or alleged infringement of the rights recognized herein, without prejudice to any legal action that may be taken.

23. PERSONAL DATA

23.1. Any personal information you submit in connection with your use of the website and our services will be used in accordance with our privacy policy. By using the website and our services, you consent to our collection and storage of your personal information. View our privacy policy.

24. PROHIBITED ACTIVITIES

24.1. The following activities are prohibited:

- Access, monitor, reproduce, distribute, transmit, broadcast, display, sell, license, copy or otherwise exploit any content of the services, including but not limited to, using any robot, spider, scraper or other automated
- means or any manual process for any purpose not in accordance with this agreement or without our express written permission.

- Violate the restrictions in any robot exclusion headers on the services or bypass or circumvent other measures employed to prevent or limit access to the services.
- Take any action that imposes, or may impose, in our discretion, an unreasonable or disproportionately large load on our infrastructure.
- Deep link to any portion of the services for any purpose without our express written permission.
- "Frame", "mirror" or otherwise incorporate any part of the website into any other websites or service without our prior written authorization.
- Attempt to modify, translate, adapt, edit, decompile, disassemble, or reverse engineer any software programs used by Dominion Markets in connection with the services.
- Circumvent, disable or otherwise interfere with security-related features of the website or features that prevent or restrict use or copying of any content.

25. REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES

25.1. The Client represents, warrants, and undertakes to Dominion Markets that, both at the time of entering into this Agreement and throughout the duration of the business relationship, all information provided in the account application, onboarding documentation, and any subsequent communication is true, accurate, complete, and not misleading in any material respect. The Client confirms that all identification documents, financial information, and supporting materials submitted to Dominion

Markets are valid, authentic, and lawfully obtained.

25.2. The Client agrees to promptly notify Dominion Markets of any change to personal, financial, regulatory, or identification information previously provided, including any circumstance that may affect the Client's eligibility to maintain a Trading Account or to engage in trading activities under this Agreement.

25.3. The Client confirms having carefully read, understood, and accepted the terms and conditions of this Agreement, including all risk disclosures and trading conditions, and acknowledges full responsibility for decisions made in connection with trading activities.

25.4. The Client further represents that they possess the legal capacity, authority, and power to enter into this Agreement, to submit Orders and instructions, and to perform all obligations arising under it. Where the Client is a legal entity, the individual completing the application and operating the Account confirms being duly authorized to act on behalf of that entity. Where the Client is an individual, the Client represents that they are at least eighteen (18) years of age, mentally competent, and legally permitted to open and operate trading accounts.

25.5. The Client acts as principal and not as agent, nominee, trustee, intermediary, or representative of any third party unless expressly disclosed and accepted in writing by Dominion Markets. All Transactions executed under the Account are undertaken for the Client's own account and risk.

25.6. The Client represents that entering into this Agreement and performing Transactions does not violate any applicable law, regulation, contractual obligation, court order, or restriction applicable to the Client or to the jurisdiction in which the Client resides or operates. The Client further confirms that no governmental, regulatory, supervisory, or central bank restriction exists that would prevent the lawful execution of Transactions under this Agreement.

25.7. The Client declares that, to the best of their knowledge, no pending legal proceedings, investigations, insolvency actions, or arbitration processes exist that could materially affect the Client's ability to fulfill obligations under this Agreement or challenge its legality, validity, or enforceability.

25.8. The Client warrants that all funds deposited into the Trading Account originate from lawful sources and are not derived, directly or indirectly, from criminal activity, fraud, money laundering, terrorist financing, or any unlawful purpose. The Client agrees to comply with all applicable anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing requirements and confirms having disclosed whether they qualify as a politically exposed person (PEP), undertaking to notify Dominion Markets immediately should such status change.

25.9. The Client acknowledges having independently selected the trading services, account type, and Financial Instruments based on their own financial situation, experience, objectives, and risk tolerance. Dominion Markets does not determine the suitability of products selected by the Client.

25.10. The Client confirms that they are not subject to any legal, regulatory, sanctions-related, contractual, or jurisdictional restriction that would prohibit or restrict them from opening an Account, accessing the Services, or trading the Financial Instruments made available by Dominion Markets.

25.11. In the event that any representation or warranty made by the Client proves to be false, inaccurate, incomplete, or misleading, Dominion Markets shall be entitled, without limitation to any other rights or remedies available under this Agreement or applicable law, to suspend or terminate the Account, cancel Transactions, declare any positions void, or close any or all Open Positions at prevailing market prices.

26. INDEMNITY

26.1. You agree to defend and indemnify Dominion Markets from and against any claims, causes of action, demands, recoveries, losses, damages, fines, penalties or other costs or expenses of any kind or nature including but not limited to reasonable legal and accounting fees, brought by third parties as a result of:

- Your breach of this agreement or the documents referenced herein.
- Your violation of any law or the rights of a third party.
- Your use of the website and services.

27. TERMINATION OF THE AGREEMENT AND CLOSURE OF ACCOUNT

27.1. This Agreement shall remain in force as long as the client maintains an active account with Dominion Markets or there are outstanding obligations arising from transactions carried out on the platform. The contractual relationship may be terminated at the initiative of the client or by decision of Dominion Markets, in accordance with the terms set forth herein and without prejudice to any obligations that, by their nature, must remain in force after termination.

27.2. The client may request the closure of their account at any time. However, in order for such a request to be processed, certain essential conditions must first be met, including: that there are no open positions or pending orders; that there are no negative balances, accrued commissions, or other financial obligations; and that Dominion Markets has received a clear and formal instruction to close the account. Until these conditions are fully met, the account may remain active solely for the purposes of settlement, clearing, or administrative regularization.

27.3. Dominion Markets may suspend or terminate the contractual relationship where it reasonably considers such action necessary, including in circumstances involving breach of contractual obligations by the Client, significant financial, credit, or operational risk, regulatory requirements or instructions from competent authorities, abusive, fraudulent, or market integrity-violating conduct, or internal needs for reorganization or modification of the account structure.

27.4. Termination may occur with or without prior notice when justified by the nature of the risk. In all cases, transactions initiated prior to termination shall remain fully valid and shall be settled in accordance with the applicable conditions.

27.5. Upon termination, Dominion Markets may take such measures as it reasonably considers necessary for the proper settlement of the relationship, including the forced closure of open positions at the available market price, cancellation of pending orders, restriction or cancellation of access to the trading platform, consolidation and offsetting of balances between different Client Accounts, and currency conversion where necessary for final settlement.

27.6. All outstanding financial obligations shall be deemed immediately due and payable. Dominion Markets may retain the funds necessary to cover open positions, reasonably foreseeable future liabilities, or costs associated with the settlement process.

27.7. If, after all applicable offsets and deductions have been made, there is a net balance in favour of the Client, such amount will be transferred within a reasonable time, provided that there are no legal, regulatory, compliance, payment processor, or AML/CFT restrictions preventing such transfer. Payments will normally be made to accounts or payment methods registered in the Client's name. Where funds were received from an approved third-party payment method, Dominion Markets may return funds to the original payment source or cardholder where required by applicable laws, payment processor requirements, card scheme rules, AML/CFT obligations, or the Company's internal controls.

27.8. Termination of the Agreement shall not affect the provisions relating to liability, compensation, warranties, confidentiality, regulatory compliance, or dispute resolution, which shall remain in force to the extent necessary to protect the legitimate rights and interests of Dominion Markets.

27.9. Suspicious or Unlawful Activity

Dominion Markets reserves the right, acting reasonably and in good faith, to immediately suspend, restrict, freeze, or terminate any Account where the Company suspects, in its sole but reasonable judgment, that:

- the Client is involved in suspicious, fraudulent, abusive, or manipulative trading activity;
- the Client is attempting to exploit pricing, latency, execution, or platform inefficiencies;
- the Client is involved in money laundering, market abuse, or any unlawful activity;
- the Client is acting in coordination with other accounts or third parties;
- Client's trading activity creates abnormal risk exposure for the Company or liquidity providers.

27.10. The Company may take such action without prior notice where necessary to protect market integrity, liquidity providers, or regulatory obligations.

28. INTEGRATION CLAUSE

28.1. This Agreement, together with the Privacy Policy and any other legal notices, policies, disclosures, or documents published or incorporated by Dominion Markets, constitutes the entire agreement between the Client and Dominion Markets concerning the Client's use of the Website and Services.

29. FORCE MAJEURE

29.1. Dominion Markets shall not be liable for any failure, delay, interruption, or inability to perform any of its obligations under this Agreement where such failure or delay results from events or circumstances beyond its reasonable control (Force Majeure Event).

29.2. A Force Majeure Event includes, without limitation, acts of God; natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods, fires, hurricanes, or other extreme weather events; war, armed conflict, terrorism, civil unrest, riots, or governmental actions; strikes, labour disputes, or industrial actions; interruptions or failures in telecommunications, internet services, power supply, data transmission networks, or electronic trading systems; cyberattacks, hacking incidents, or other malicious technological events; suspension or extreme volatility of financial markets; liquidity shortages; failure of counterparties, banks, liquidity providers, clearing houses, or payment service providers; regulatory changes, sanctions, or actions of public authorities; or any other circumstance that materially impairs Dominion Markets' ability to operate in the ordinary course of business.

29.3. Upon the occurrence of a Force Majeure Event, Dominion Markets shall be entitled, without prior notice, to take any measures it considers reasonably necessary under the circumstances, including suspending or modifying trading conditions, adjusting margin requirements, restricting access to the Trading Platform, delaying execution of orders, closing open positions at prevailing market prices, or temporarily suspending withdrawals where operationally required. Such measures shall not constitute a breach of this Agreement.

29.4. Dominion Markets shall not be responsible for any loss, damage, cost, or expense incurred by the Client as a result of a Force Majeure Event, including losses arising from delayed execution, inability to trade, price movements, or temporary unavailability of services during such period.

29.5. Where reasonably practicable, Dominion Markets will use commercially reasonable efforts to resume normal operations as soon as the Force Majeure Event ceases. The occurrence of a Force Majeure Event shall not relieve the Client of any payment obligations or liabilities that arose prior to, or during, such event. The provisions of this section shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

30. REGULATORY PROVISIONS

30.1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, Dominion Markets Ltd. shall be entitled, when providing Services to the Client, to take any action it reasonably considers necessary or appropriate, acting in good faith, in order to comply with applicable laws, regulatory requirements, market rules, industry practices, or supervisory obligations imposed by competent authorities.

30.2. The Company may disclose information relating to the Client, the Client's Account, and any Transactions to regulatory authorities, supervisory bodies, governmental agencies, courts, financial intelligence units, or other competent authorities, including but not limited to the Financial Services Commission (FSC) or any successor authority, where such disclosure is required or permitted under applicable law, regulation, or official request.

30.3. Dominion Markets shall not be liable to the Client for any loss, damage, delay, restriction, suspension, or action taken by the Company or its agents in good faith to comply with applicable laws, regulations, regulatory guidance, market rules, or lawful instructions issued by competent authorities.

30.4. Any failure by the Company or its agents to comply with a regulatory rule, law, or market requirement shall not relieve the Client from fulfilling any obligation arising under this Agreement, nor shall it be interpreted as creating additional rights, remedies, or claims against the Company beyond those expressly provided herein.

30.5. Where any provision of this Agreement becomes inconsistent with applicable legislation, regulatory requirements, or supervisory directives introduced after the execution of this Agreement, Dominion Markets reserves the right to amend or update the Agreement as necessary to ensure compliance. Such amendments shall become automatically effective and binding upon the relationship between the Company and the Client upon publication or notification, without requiring further consent from the Client where permitted by law.

30.6. Any reference within this Agreement to laws, statutes, regulations, or regulatory provisions shall include any amendments, replacements, consolidations, reenactments, or subordinate legislation issued under such legal framework from time to time.

30.7. In accordance with applicable regulatory obligations, Dominion Markets shall retain Client records, transactional data, communications, identification documents, and related information for a minimum period of ten (10) years following the termination of the contractual relationship with the Client, or for any longer period required under applicable law or regulatory instruction.

30.8. Interpretation and Enforcement

The Company shall have the right, acting reasonably and in good faith, to interpret, apply, and enforce the provisions of this Agreement where it reasonably considers such action necessary to protect market integrity, maintain operational stability, comply with applicable laws and regulatory obligations, or prevent abusive, fraudulent, or manipulative trading activity. Any such determinations shall be made in good faith and shall be binding on the Client, in the absence of manifest error.

30.9. Dominion Markets reserves the right to monitor trading activity for the purposes of detecting market abuse, fraud, or unlawful conduct.

30.10. Where required, Dominion Markets may report suspicious activity to regulatory authorities, financial intelligence units, or other competent bodies without prior notice to the Client.

30.11. The Client acknowledges that Dominion Markets' risk management, compliance, and market integrity determinations may require immediate action without prior notice. Such actions shall be valid and enforceable and shall not constitute breach of this Agreement.

31. COMPLAINT HANDLING

31.1. Dominion Markets maintains and operates internal procedures for the prompt, fair, and consistent handling of Client complaints.

31.2. For the purposes of this Agreement, a complaint means any expression of dissatisfaction by a client, whether oral or written, relating to the provision of Services under this Agreement.

31.3. Clients may submit complaints in writing through the official contact channels designated by Dominion Markets, as published on its website or otherwise notified to the Client. Complaints should include sufficient details to enable proper investigation.

31.4. Dominion Markets shall acknowledge receipt of a complaint within a reasonable timeframe, and in any event typically within five (5) Business Days of receipt.

31.5. Complaints shall be assessed and handled in accordance with Dominion

Markets' internal escalation procedures to ensure appropriate review and independence, where applicable.

31.6. Dominion Markets shall provide a final written response to the Client within thirty (30) days from the date of receipt of the complaint, setting out the outcome of the investigation and, where relevant, any proposed remedial action.

31.7. Where a final response cannot be provided within this timeframe, Dominion Markets shall inform the Client of the reasons for the delay and indicate the expected timeframe for resolution.

31.8. If the Client remains dissatisfied with the final response, the Client may, where applicable, escalate the complaint to the relevant regulatory authority or external dispute resolution body, or otherwise pursue remedies in accordance with Section 32 of this Agreement.

32. DISPUTE RESOLUTION

32.1. Any dispute, controversy, claim, or disagreement arising out of or in connection with this Agreement, including its existence, validity, interpretation, performance, breach, or termination, shall be finally resolved by arbitration in accordance with the rules of the International Arbitration Centre of Mauritius (as amended from time to time), which rules are deemed incorporated by reference into this Agreement.

32.2. For the purposes of any arbitration proceedings, each Party irrevocably agrees that the International Arbitration Centre of Mauritius shall have exclusive jurisdiction to administer and determine the arbitration proceedings. Each Party submits to the jurisdiction of such arbitration body and irrevocably waives any objection it may have, at any time, to the commencement or conduct of proceedings before such arbitration forum, including any claim that the proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum or that the arbitration tribunal lacks jurisdiction.

32.3. The arbitral tribunal shall consist of three (3) arbitrators appointed in accordance with the applicable arbitration rules. The legal seat and place of arbitration shall be Mauritius. The language of the arbitration proceedings shall be English.

32.4. To the fullest extent permitted under applicable law, each Party irrevocably waives any immunity from jurisdiction, enforcement, attachment, execution, or other legal process with respect to itself and its assets or revenues, regardless of their purpose or intended use.

32.5. To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, any action, claim, or proceeding by the Client arising out of or related to Transactions conducted under this Agreement must be initiated within twelve (12) months from the date on which the Client became aware, or ought reasonably to have become aware, of the event giving rise to the claim. Any claim brought after such period may be treated as time-barred, except where a longer period is required under applicable law or where such limitation cannot lawfully be excluded, restricted, or modified. This clause shall not restrict the Company's right to recover amounts owed by the Client, reverse or recover amounts arising from abusive, fraudulent, unlawful, or prohibited trading activity, or comply with any regulatory, law enforcement, court, arbitral, or payment processor requirement.

33. APPLICABLE LAW

33.1. This Agreement, including its formation, validity, interpretation, performance, and any disputes arising out of or in connection with it, shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Mauritius.

33.2. Subject to Clause 32 (Dispute Resolution), any matter not subject to arbitration or any application for interim, injunctive, or conservatory relief may be brought before the competent courts of Mauritius, to which the Parties hereby irrevocably submit.

33.3. To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, the Client irrevocably waives any right to a trial by jury in any proceedings arising out of or relating to this Agreement.

33.4. The United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG) shall not apply to this Agreement.

34. FINAL PROVISIONS

34.1. Your use of our website and services is conditioned upon your acceptance of and compliance with all of the terms and conditions set forth. This authorization to use our services does not extend to jurisdictions where these provisions are not respected or applied.

34.2. Nothing in these Terms restricts the Company from complying with applicable laws, regulations, court orders, law enforcement requests, governmental requirements, or other legal processes relating to the Website or the Company's services.

34.3. If any provision of these Terms is found to be invalid, illegal, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall continue in full force and effect. Any failure or delay by the Company in enforcing these Terms shall not constitute a waiver of its rights.

34.4. We reserve all rights not expressly granted herein, while at all times maintaining the protection of and respect for our intellectual property rights and prerogatives.

35. Restricted Jurisdictions

Dominion Markets Ltd does not offer its services to residents of, persons located in, nationals or citizens of, or entities incorporated, registered, or operating in restricted or prohibited jurisdictions, including but not limited to Afghanistan, Côte d'Ivoire, Cuba, Iran, Libya, Myanmar, North Korea, Russia, Sudan, Syria, Yemen, the United States of America, including Puerto Rico, and any other jurisdiction where the Company is not authorised or permitted to operate, or where the provision of services would breach applicable laws, sanctions requirements, regulatory requirements, payment processor rules, card scheme rules, or the Company's internal risk policy.
